

Volunteer role
Forester

We hugely value and appreciate the time that our volunteers donate to us, no matter how big or small.

As a charity, Earth Trust depends on the generosity of our supporters to carry out our vital work to champion accessible natural green spaces.

Volunteers are part of the family and are invaluable to us at Earth Trust. In fact, we simply would not be able to get by without you!

Become a Volunteer Forester

What does the role involve?

A variety of tasks around Forestry and Woodland Management may include the following:

- Taking measurements of trees to create a detailed inventory of our woodland holdings.
- Pruning trees to develop good form for the timber market.
- Tree planting.
- Maintenance of fencing, tree guards and other woodland infrastructure.
- Woodland condition and deer impact surveys.
- A mix of lone and team working.

What's in it for you?

As part of our new team of Forestry Volunteers you will learn all about the complexities of managing a woodland habitat. From individual tree management up to looking at a wood as a whole to assess its quality for wildlife, timber and it's general health.

You will have a key role to play in the ongoing management of Paradise Wood, one of the UKs leading research collections and learn about the variety of research taking place on site as well as getting a chance to contribute to that research.

Initial training will cover forestry mensuration (measuring timber) but will include habitat surveys, hand tool use and potentially some power tools.

Alongside all of that you will be out and about in our woods, a great way to keep fit and enjoy the health and wellbeing benefits of spending time in amongst the trees.

Time required

To be confirmed – the Forestry Volunteers team are really flexible. Times can be discussed on an individual basis.

Volunteering has helped to keep me connected with the outside world and to give my days a structure and purpose

It has helped me learn new skills and make new friends as well.

What skills and experience do you need?

We thrive on your enthusiasm for trees and woods!

Most of our volunteer roles do not require in-depth previous experience as we provide a full induction, but the following skills and attributes would make you particularly suited for this role:

- A desire to learn about forestry principles and balancing commercial enterprise with habitat management.
- A willingness to be out and about in all weathers.
- All training, tools and PPE will be provided.
- An understanding of the importance of health and safety.

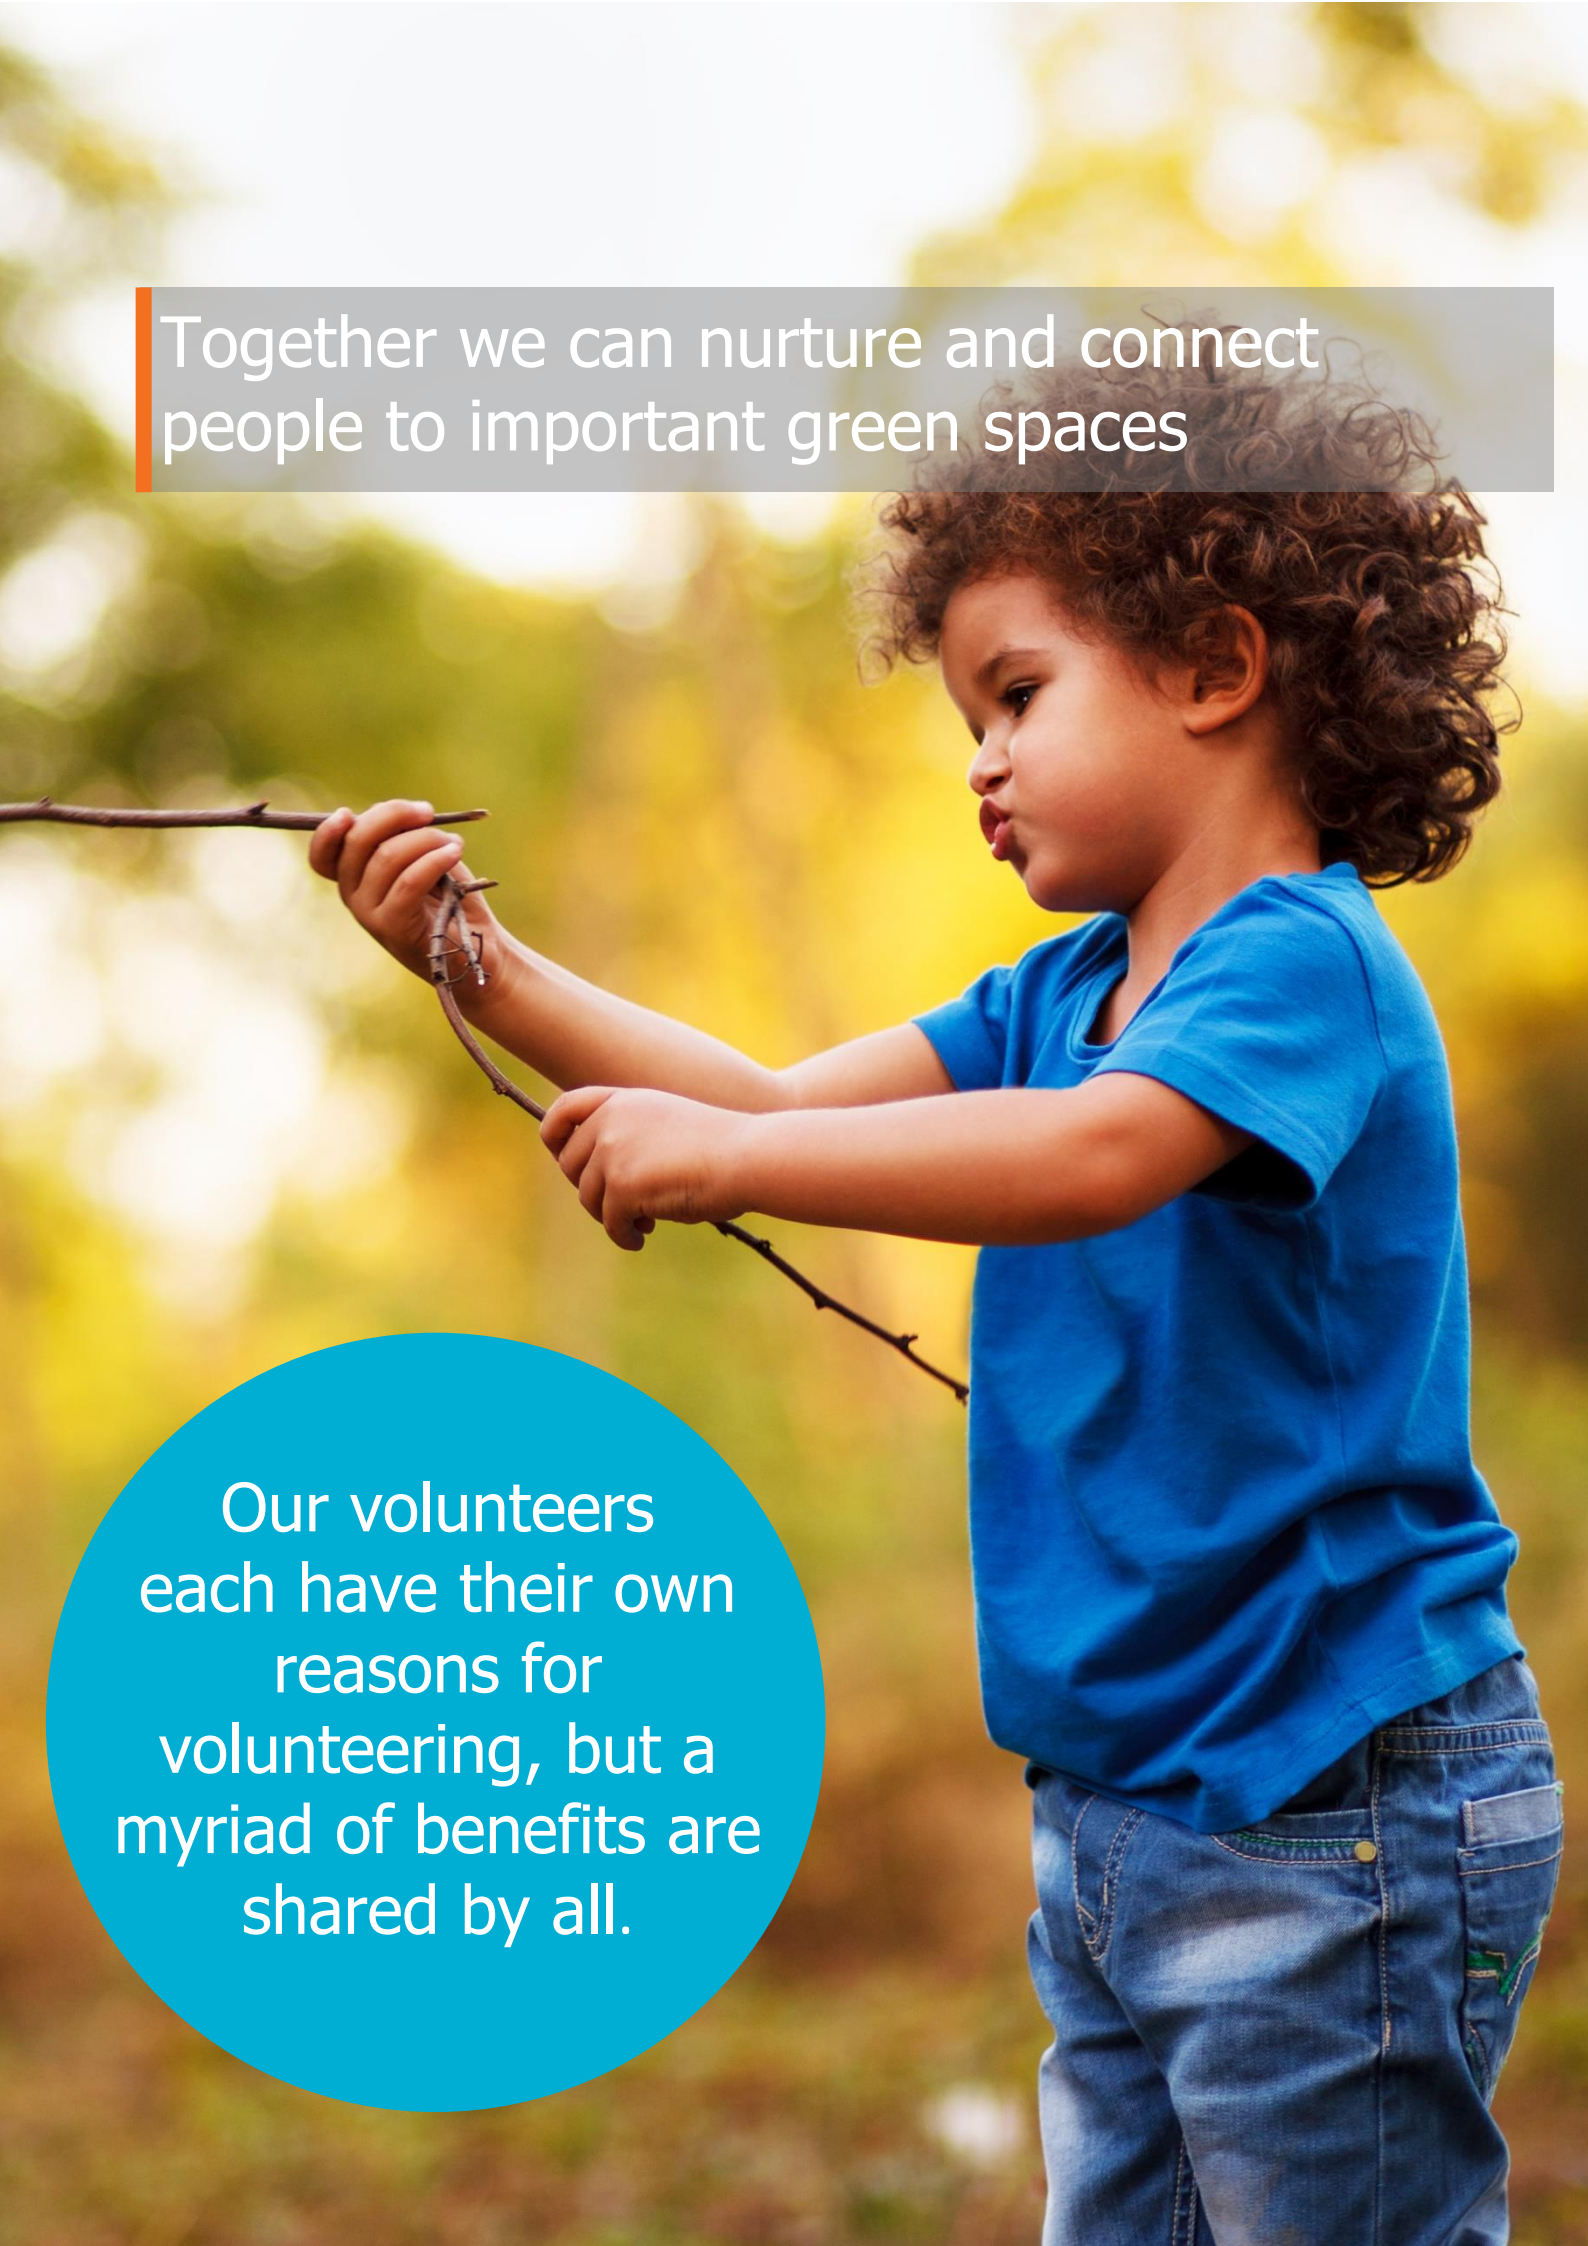

What support will you receive?

All volunteers receive our Volunteer Handbook with training and information. In addition, you will be invited to come along to our Insight sessions - exclusive events for Earth Trust volunteers.

The Earth Trust Forester will be your key staff member and they will provide training, regular communication and work closely with you.

The Volunteer Officer will also be available as a point of contact and to help with anything you might need.

Together we can nurture and connect people to important green spaces

Our volunteers each have their own reasons for volunteering, but a myriad of benefits are shared by all.

Whether it's gaining experience or putting an old skill into practice, meeting new people or doing something for the local community, there are loads of motivations for becoming an Earth Trust volunteer

Our volunteers come from all walks of life.

Earth Trust strives to be a diverse and inclusive place where we can all be ourselves, and we are committed to equality of opportunity for all our staff and volunteers.

People at the heart of change of change

Earth Trust is a friendly, positive and collaborative place. You will be joining a dedicated team of volunteers who are passionate about making a difference to climate sustainability, biodiversity, environmental impacts and health and wellbeing through engaging more people and making a positive impact.

Our volunteers' hard work and dedication was rewarded with The Queen's Award for Voluntary Service the MBE for volunteer groups, in 2016.

Your impact

Volunteers are integral at Earth Trust, assisting with all aspects of our work, from looking after our green spaces to helping people engage with the natural environment through events and education.

As a new volunteer you bring a fresh perspective and energy that is vital to us. We want to hear your thoughts and ideas on any aspect of our work!

The work that Earth Trust undertakes, caring for this incredible landscape and using it to educate and connect, is so important and I'm very fortunate to be working towards our mission with a really brilliant team of people!

Lee Ann Norris, Head of Fundraising

I have got to know many volunteers and it is nice to hear about their backgrounds. I know many of the staff and...they have a wide range of knowledge which they will always willingly share with myself and other volunteers. I always look forward to visiting Earth Trust...Basically it's a family.

Michael, Volunteer

Earth Trust has a team of approximately 200 active volunteers working across all aspects of the charity.

I really enjoy the variety of people that I get to come in to contact with on a daily basis. People from all walks of life coming together for one common goal.

Nicola Williams, Volunteer Officer

Working with nature has really contributed to my mental well-being

Matthew, Volunteer

I like the idea that my working day can make a small contribution to the future of the planet. It is great to work with people who don't just hope we can do it but who are doing what they can to make it happen."

Kitty Cox, Major Appeals Manager

We seek a world where nature and people thrive in balance and where, as individuals, we all have a deep understanding of our environment, our place in it and our role in caring for it.

Jayne Manley, CEO

Our purpose

We are facing a triple threat of climate change, loss of biodiversity, and a massive public health crises, made worse for those in disadvantaged communities who have little or no access to nature.

Our purpose is to inspire people to address these crises through the power of natural green spaces.

Our vision

Our vision is a society where accessible, engaging green spaces enable nature and people to thrive in balance.

Our mission

Our mission is to champion access and engagement with natural green spaces for everyone, so that together we take action for people and planet

Earth Trust has been working towards this for over 40 years, but it has never been more critical than now.

Demonstrate. Engage. Influence.

More about Earth Trust

Earth Trust is an environmental charity with 40 years' experience in caring for and inspiring others with the natural green spaces.

We believe that we all have a responsibility to care for nature and understand our role within our ecosystem.

But, for people to understand their environment, their place in it and their role in caring for it, they must have the opportunity to experience its power and nurture a deep connection.

Together with our supporters, Earth Trust is guardian of some extremely special and inspiring places full of nature and heritage.

We care for 500 hectares of woodland, farmland, wildflower meadows and wetlands, which receive 200,000 visits a year.

We use these amazing places to engage and inspire people and to demonstrate nature-based solutions to climate, biodiversity and public health crises, that we hope others will take and use elsewhere.
